CALL FOR ABSTRACTS - DEADLINE FRIDAY 20TH JANUARY

DEVEX is the only technical conference of its kind which is focused on the full E&P project cycle; from exploration, appraisal, development and production (early, mid and late life) through to CCUS and decommissioning. DEVEX has now been providing excellent opportunities for geoscientists, geophysicists, geologists, petrophysicists, reservoir engineers and petroleum engineers to come together and share knowledge for 20 years.

Energy Security and Sustainability is one of the key challenges facing society today. The conference will consider this subject and ask the industry: "What are we doing to accelerate projects, reduce costs, increase production and reduce emissions?"

DEVEX 2023 will be a platform to share ideas and lessons learned that have led to material gains and optimised performance; ultimately driving increased energy security and sustainability. This will be delivered via a series of keynotes, case histories, techbytes, masterclasses and networking sessions.

This Call for Abstracts is an opportunity for companies to share both lessons learned, and the innovative ideas that are being deployed. We invite companies to submit a short (200 word) abstract indicating the type of presentation preferred - either a formal (20 minute) presentation or a Techbyte (5 minute) presentation (can be more sales oriented). There is also the opportunity to offer educational, or training-based talks, which we brand as 'Masterclasses' – refreshing & reviewing technical areas of your choosing.

Presentation topics include, but are not limited to:

- Case histories on maximising production
- Case histories on field redevelopment
- Case histories on the use of new technology or novel approaches
- Advanced recovery mechanisms – waterflood to EOR
- Near field opportunities
- Facilities enhancements to improve efficiency
- Big data, artificial intelligence and machine learning – practical applications
- Decarbonisation of offshore energy systems
- Repurposing of offshore infrastructure beyond COP
- Remote working, collaboration & skills development
- Lessons learned from other areas

DEVEX 2023 – SPONSORSHIP PACKAGES

SPE Aberdeen, PESGB and AFES are not for profit organisations. Raising sponsorship is crucial to help us to reduce the ticket cost and maximise attendance, deliver a successful conference and to enable the organising charities to re-invest back into industry and society. By supporting this event, not only are you providing an important knowledge sharing and training opportunity for the industry, but you are also helping to support our future generation of young engineers and geoscientists.
